TEACHER EDUCATION SCENARIO

India's dream is to become global power house of knowledge hub. In order to create knowledge economy, India needs to overhaul its school educational system right from elementary to secondary level. The major objective of National Knowledge Commission is "Build excellence in the educational system to meet the knowledge challenges of 21st century and increase India's competitive advantage in fields of knowledge.

Kothari Commission (1964-66) the earliest policy formulation on education emphasized the need for teacher education to be "brought into mainstream academic life of the Universities on the one hand and of school." One of the major outcomes of NCF in 2005 was that Teacher Education emerged as the most challenging sector to bring about qualitative and quantitative reforms in Education. According to the report of NCERT (Comprehensive Evaluation of Centrally Sponsored Scheme on Restructuring and Reorganization of Teacher Education), "The teaching profession is still the last choice for many because of its low salary, limited career advancement and professional development opportunities. Teachers and teacher educators working in inaccessible rural and tribal areas are not properly prepared and rewarded. The Teacher Education Programs do not develop sensitivity in teachers and teacher educators to emergent context specific requirements and techno-pedagogic skills."

In the state of Haryana there is dire need of trained teachers as shown by the figure in the table given below:

Year	Enrolment	No. of Teachers
2008-09	1060668	116239
2009-10	1115634	110134

 DISE 2009-10: Flash Statistics*

The above table shows that the enrolment of students is increasing where as number of teachers correspondingly has not increased. The expansion in number of schools and infrastructural facilities at primary, upper primary, secondary levels has resulted in corresponding increase in the demand for teachers. This has posed great challenges to teacher education. The need for quality trained teachers has increased by leaps and bounds with the onset of SSA and Right to Education which guarantees free and compulsory Education for children of 6-14 years of age. According to the report of NCERT over the recent years, the sector of teacher education has suffered from commercialization and other setbacks which have led to significant deterioration in the quality of teacher educators serving in institutes and colleges of teacher training.

The act mandates improvement in quantity as well as quality. Education for all is a global movement led by UNESCO aiming to meet the learning needs of children, youth and adults by 2015 aiming at “accelerating progress towards” quality universal primary education.”

Haryana Board of School Education set up in 1969 has set long term goal of raising standard of Education. It is committed to enhance and inclusivity in quality education that nurtures and stimulates intellectual and academic excellence.

The growth in the numbers of Teacher Education Institutes in Education is itself a proof of the fact that state is committed towards educational development:

Session	No. of Education Colleges
2004-05	115
2007-08	256
2010-11	466

To make Haryana a leading state educationally has been the principal concern of the state government. The primary focus is to provide quality and need based education to all. The Haryana board envisions to effectively contributing to the quality, equity, relevance and access of School education. One constituent of such a support system will consist of carefully identified mentors or teachers who are already serving in schools and who can act as models for future teachers. Mentoring is now universally recognized as an essential factor of quality in teacher education. An innovative and flexible approach is this factor to be utilized fully. The report recommends that Close cooperation and continuous interaction are required between these mentors serving in the schools and the faculty of teacher training institutions in India. To enable people to develop in a flourishing human being, being a responsible citizen of one’s community, nation and the world.

Teachers play a pivotal role in student learning. Excellent teaching depends not on a bag of tricks but rather on the ability to draw effectively from the complex interplay among theory, practice and the reality of one’s teaching situation. It is only excellence in teacher education which can sustain this intellectual work in our class rooms.
